Produced in 2002

A program with heart as well as mind, KIDS MEDICINE benefits from the warmth and empathy of its host, Olympic gold medalist skater Peggy Fleming.

Each episode contains a personal profile of a patient or health care provider whose story informs and inspires viewers:

- A successful surgeon critically burned as a child.
- A boy missing his left hand who builds his own Go-Karts and has a room full of driving trophies.
- A young amputee's passion for music drives him to learn to play the cello using his foot instead of his missing hand.
