Produced in 2010

Hosted by Guad Venegas, WORLD PARTY! gives viewers an inside guide to some of the world's biggest festivals, parties, and events. Each episode features Guad enjoying the local sights and sounds of these festivals and letting loose just like anyone else would! From piloting a hot air balloon over the Rio Grande to lobbing overripe tomatoes at unsuspecting revelers, WORLD PARTY! introduces viewers to offbeat activities that may seem inaccessible to the average traveler -- and shows them just how possible they are.

EPISODES INCLUDE:

Edinburgh Fringe Festival

After World War II, Edinburgh, Scotland wanted to set the stage for peace and unity in Europe with the creation of the Edinburgh Festival, a showcase of the world's finest theater and opera. However, eight uninvited theater groups also showed up and gave impromptu performances of their own, leading to what the press declared the "Fringe of the Festival". The name stuck and today anyone who is willing and able can perform their act for the public. As Guad feels the spirit of the festival build within him, he grabs whatever he can find for his own performance on the Royal Mile.

La Tomatina

The town of Buñol is a modest little mountain town right outside of Valencia, Spain. But, for one day every year, the town is wrapped in plastic and locals take cover as over thirty thousand party-goers descend upon the town to partake in the world's largest food fight. Participants hurl hundreds of thousands of overripe tomatoes at one another on the last Wednesday in August for reasons that no one can quite seem to remember. Guad participates in La Tomatina and shows the audience what it feels like to bathe in streets of tomato soup!

Fantasy Fest

Key West has long been known as a tropical haven for the bizarre and unusual. It's no surprise that Fantasy Fest, the city's week-long party leading up to Halloween, is no exception. Every year, tens of thousands of islanders and visitors alike dress up (or strip down) to create a free loving, anything goes party, that, much like the city, is truly unique. As the festival builds to its Saturday night climax and in the spirit of Halloween, Guad can't help but join in the action by stripping down to his speedo, painting his body like a Mexican wrestler, and jumping on a local float as the final parade rolls through Old Town.
